THE RACES.

Four Events on the Programe for This Afternoon.

The Favorites—Track Talk and Sporting Notes—To-Morrow's Events.

Basil Duke differs from the general opinion that the races have been too one-sided to be interesting. He says the attendance is as good as last year. It is true favorites have won, but he claims first-place was well earned every time save in the first race Bancroft ran. The Colonel is an enthusiastic turfman and his opinion ought to be worth something. Still the impression of the average race-goer is that the sport thus far has hardly been worth the trip to Cote Brilliante and the entrance fee. The non-professional patron of the turf likes to see neck and neck rushes down the home stretch with the favorite downed occasionally. The field buyer is the one who whoops loudest and imparts to all around him an enthusiam that is intense. A tumble in the dust and delightful uncertainty as to what has become of the jock adds to the interest.

The few measure the success of a meeting in one way and the many in another. Viewed from the popular standpoint the races have been disappointing so far. When everybody names the winning horse before the start and the finish simply confirms the generally expressed expectation, there is bound to be a feeling of dissatisfaction, save with the professional turfman, who lays his money regularly on the favorite and sees the finer points of a performance.

SPECULATION ON TO-DAY'S RACES.

The entries for to-day's races showed the same strength of favorites which has characterized all the sport of the meeting thus far.

In the three-quarters spin, Knight Templar had the lead so far that it was hard selling against him. White, the favorite, brought 55; Lizzie S., 11; Patti, 8; Clarissima, 5; Sinbad, 5; Minnie Lewis, 5; Tidal Wave, 4; Fraud and Oak Grove Rose, 3.

For the Brewers' Cup Bancroft was so greatly the favorite that the field had no takers. With the favorite barred Talisman sold at 40, Jim Malone 20, John Davis 18.

The selling race, a mile and a quarter, promises a better contest. Churchill and Bob Johnson were both favorites, the former at 45 and the latter at 40, with Nannie Mac 15, Bosworth and Billy Ward 15.

Club Purse, $300, for all ages; $250 to first and $50 to second; heats of 1⅛ miles.

Notes.

Chicago hangs up $18,000 in stakes and purses and gives four races a day. The horses here will leave for the Lakeside City immediately after the St. Louis meeting.

Callao is the unfortunate of the week. In the inaugural scramble he got off half a dozen lengths behind the others, and yesterday he didn't get away from the post at all.

Mr. Watts has a high opinion of Talisman and so expresses himself this morning. He thought that Bancroft would have to earn first place to-day if the Swigert colt was at himself.

The English coach which took out Gov. Crittenden and party yesterday got back to the city late. A turn was taken through Forest Park and the horn woke the echoes in the twilight.

Atkinson, a jockey from Lexington, fell through a trap-door at Ecker's Turf Exchange last night and received some severe bruises. The boy has done most of the riding for Green Morris this season.

The favorites were too strong to make the combination very well. At Roche's over $3,000 was deposited in the combination box, but the winning tickets paid only $10 45. A blind man could have picked the winners.

M. Lewis Clark, the President of the Louisville Jockey Club, has not been one of the judges since the first day when Gabriel and Callao were left so badly. Mr. Clark does not like to be on a race course.

Manager Ecker will probably receive a proposition from several well-known young gentlemen to take the Cote Brilliante course off his hands. Some informal discussion has already taken place and the movement is growing in strength.

Rolla Wells in person superintends the running of the Narrow Gauge suburban trains. Thus far the patrons of that route have had no occasion to find fault with the management. There are plenty of cars, and when the train arrives in the city a reserve of street cars is in waiting at Grand avenue.

The Christy colt Billy Spink ran well for three furlongs in the youngsters' dash yesterday. It was known that he was in too high flesh, and the instructions to the rider were to send him along smartly for a short distance and then when he seemed to have done his running to ease up. The colt has a good future before him.

Roche's Turf Exchange.

St. Louis and Jerome Races to-day. Auctions, Mutuals and Combinations sold all day also evenings. Books open on important races. Exchange room 714 Olive street.

JIM KEENE'S GAME.

A Scheme for a Barge Line to Bear the Wheat Market.

A report comes from New York that Jim Keene has sent an agent to this city to make arrangements for organizing a barge line here to run to New Orleans, Keene's object is said to be to run this line in opposition to the barge line that Jay Gould is interested in. Keene is a noted bear in the stock market, and having control of a Mississippi barge line he is of the opinion that he could reduce river rates on bulk grain to such low rates that the greater portion of the grain seeking an outlet to Europe would go by the river route. Then the trunk railroad lines would suffer for lack of transportation, and the value of their stock in the speculative market be greatly depreciated on this account. Thus he would be enabled to make up on the short side of stocks far more than he could lose by carrying the grain at a low rate of transportation. Inquiry among St. Louis merchants, barge line officials and others failed to develop anything bearing upon this report, which was looked upon by most of them as New York "bear" talk to influence the stock market. If a New York agent of Keene's has been sent here he has so far failed to make his presence felt among St. Louis capitalists and merchants.

Labor Troubles.

The brewers' strike was in about the same condition to-day as it has been for several days past. The men still claim to be firm and confident of success, but a canvass of several of the breweries this morning developed the fact that everything was going on as usual.

"It is not a matter of demand from skilled labor," said one of the firm of Winklemeyer & Co., "and we hardly know that a strike has been in progress. The places have been easily filled and there is but little prospect of the strike being successful. Some of the men are very weak and would like to get back to work."

WIRE WORKERS.

To-day in response to orders received from headquarters at Pittsburg, the wire workers in this city stopped work, although as yet no schedule of rates demanded have been presented. At the Harrison Wire Works, at at Twenty-fifth and Gratiot streets, 150 men stopped work and Mr. Pitch, the Superintendent, stated that no stated demands were made, but that they would shut down on their rolling mill for the present, until something definite is arrived at. This is the leading establishment in town, and the other wire works generally follow their example. The wages range from $5 to $10 a day, and the presumption is that a raise of 30 per cent will be demanded. The strike embraces the puddlers, rollers, drawers and heaters.

THE BOILER MAKERS.

A reporter of the POST DISPATCH visited several of the boiler manufactories this morning, and found matters in about the same condition.

Mr. John Rohan said that the men holding out was an expensive business to both parties. His concern had offered to advance 25 cents on the $2 75 the men had been receiving, and he thought it was a mistake that they had not accepted, as it was not likely that the bosses would give in. As to the men who went to Chicago, some of them have returned, having found out that matters at the city by the lake were not so rosy as they were represented to be. At present, however, things are in statu quo, and unless something is done soon there will be a heavy loss to record. One leading boiler maker said: "You can bet the men have got a good dose of striking. When they get through with this one it will be very dangerous to suggest anything of that kind in their vicinity."

New Wheat.

The first new wheat of this year's crop to arrive in this market was received over the Iron Mountain road to-day, having been shipped from Fort Worth, Texas, on June 4, by Brooks & Myles, and consigned to R. C. Greer & Co. of this city. The wheat was sound and dry, but of small berry, though readily inspecting No. 3 red winter. This car of wheat was auctioned off by Dan Bartlett at the grain call to-day and was sold at the fancy price of $1 50 per bushel, George Bain, for the Atlantic Milling Co., being the buyer. Last year the first new wheat came to hand on May 29, having been shipped from Fort Worth also.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

Wm. O'Brien was found intoxicated on the streets last night and conducted to the station. This morning he was fined $3 and costs.

John Mahoney and son were arrested on a warrant sworn out in 'Squire Graney's court for violating the city ordinances. The case will be tried to-morrow.

James Keenan, for trespassing on railroad property, was fined $1 and costs. Not having the wherewith to liquidate the fine he was sent to the Belleville jail.

Barney McGivney, a suspicious looking character, was found prowling on the streets early this morning. 'Squire Grany allowed him five minutes to leave town.

Joseph Rafter, the man who was arrested night before last for prowling around Officer Gleyre's yard, was arraigned before 'Squire Graney this morning, and the prosecution failing to prove that robbery was intended Rafter was allowed fifteen minutes to leave town.

J. M. Mehlig, a shoemaker on Collinsville avenue, excited the envy of two boys named Scott and Nelson to such an extent that they shied a large amount of macadamizing at him. Mehlig, in a battered and bruised condition, appeared before 'Squire Graney and swore out a warrant for the arrest of his persecutors.

Barney McGrath, while in a fighting mood yesterday evening, was anxious to clean out the town. He did not succeed, however, before he was arrested for disturbing the peace. He was tried to-day on the charge, and the Justice, taking into consideration the large crowd with which Barney had to contend with, assessed him only $3 and costs.

ADDITIONAL RIVER NEWS.

The Beaver leaves to day with three M. V. & T. barges for Peoria, where they will be loaded with 80,000 bushels of corn.

The new and elegant steamer Bright Light will not go to St. Paul at present, but leaves for Pittsburg Saturday. The owners of the boat have been induced to make this change in her destination, owing to the rise in the Ohio, and the special inducement offered at present in that trade. The Bright Light is commanded by Capt. Vandergrift with Archie Woods, late of the Jas. Howard, in charge of the office. See card elsewhere.

TWO MURDERERS.

McQueen, the Wife-Slayer, is Sentenced to Two Years in the Pen.

Banks, a Negro Wife-Killer, Pleads Guilty and is Sentenced for Life.

In the Criminal Court to-day two murder cases were finally disposed of and both defendants sentenced to the Penitentiary. The jury in the case of William McQueen, which retired to discuss the evidence at noon yesterday, filed into court this morning having agreed upon a verdict. Old man McQueen was brought out and seated in the prisoner's chair. The foreman of the jury then handed the clerk the verdict finding William McQueen guilty of manslaughter in the fourth degree and assessing his punishment at two years in the Penitentiary. The crime of which McQueen was found guilty was committed April 26, 1880. He and his wife, Agnes McQueen, an old Scotch couple, lived in Kirby's alley, near Twelfth and Spruce. When he came home he found that everything of any worth had been pawned and his wife was lying on the bed. He took up an ax and dealt her a blow that resulted fatally three days afterwards. He delivered himself at Central District Station saying that he did not intend to kill her, but only to frighten her, when by some mischance he inflicted the fatal blow instead of striking the pillow. This was the only defense made. Col. Nat Claiborne and Con. McBride were appointed by the Court to defend.

When the verdict was read and the defendant taken back, James Banks, the old negro who shot his wife March 27, 1880, in the southwestern portion of the city, was called before the bar. He had addressed a letter to Judge Laughlin expressing a desire to plead guilty to murder in the second degree, and in accordance with this he pleaded to-day and was sentenced to the Penitentiary for his natural life. In the dock a reporter found both McQueen and Banks seated side by side, and a more absorbing subject for a study of human nature could not easily be found. The former is 61 years of age and a Scotchman. His long white beard and hair make him venerable, while his keen eyes closely watch everything about him. Banks is nearly seventy years of age and his bushy black hair covered with a cast of gray. His beard is of sparse growth and his whole countenance is that of a superstitious old negro.

"Well, McQueen, what do you think of your sentence?"

"Oh, I am satisfied, but they should not have sentenced me to two years. I did not intend to kill my wife, and there was no evidence that I did. I delivered myself up and you might say I threw myself away. But I am healthy, thank God, and I hope that the Scotch Society will do something to have my sentence cut down. I have no friends and no money."

Banks said: "Yes, I preferred to plead guilty to murder in the second degree than to stand another trial."

"What do you think about the severity of your sentence?"

"What is my sentence? I didn't understand the Judge."

"You have been sentenced to the Penitentiary for life."

"For life! Is that it?" the old man repeated thoughtfully and said: "I am an old man, all alone, and I prefer this to standing trial."

Banks' action was a complete surprise to his attorney, Mr. Goode, who only yesterday received the names of witnesses and sent a surveyor to the scene of the murder to prove that Banks could not have killed his wife in the manner charged. Mr. Goode will inquire into the matter, and if he discovers anything more than the defendant's voluntary action in the matter the sentence will be set aside and the new trial recently granted by the Supreme Court had.

Immigration Notes.

About 9,000 copies of the Hand Book, printed in German, have been sent to their agents in Germany by the Missouri Immigration Society. These will reach their destination some time from the 10th to the 15th of the present month.

Secretary Renshaw has just received a letter from the European agent of the Immigration Society stating that twenty or twenty-five families of the better class of Belgians would sail for America on the next regular steamer of the Antwerp Line. Their destination is Missouri, and they will arrive here before the close of the month.

After quite a lengthy correspondence, arrangements are now completed whereby one of the largest steamship lines and immigration houses in Philadelphia will work in the direct interest of the Missouri Immigration Society. The steamer line plies between Liverpool and Philadelphia, and a scale of rates from England to St. Louis has been completed. A letter has just been received at the office of the Immigration Society in this city, containing instructions as to the forwarding of printed matter and ordering ten thousand copies of the Hand Book, upon the cover of which will appear an advertisement of the Philadelphia house. Important results are confidently expected to follow this new arrangement.

THE friends of Mrs. Jaminet are considerably annoyed at a report which seems to have gained some currency, to the effect that she had been divorced prior to her marriage to Dr. Jaminet. There is not the slightest foundation for the report. She was left a widow at the age of 19 by the death of her husband from consumption; remained a widow eleven years, then married Dr. Jaminet. These facts are well known to a great number of people in this community, where Mrs. Jaminet has been engaged, for a long time, in works of benevolence and charity,

SEEKING REST.

O ye that fare amid these breathless places,
Spending your soul 'twixt factory and mart,
Ye whose quick eyes and pale and eager faces,
Reveal the restless heart,

What are ye seeking in your fever'd labor,
That know no pause thro' all the crowded week,
Each for himself, and no man for his neighbor,
What is it that ye seek?

"Oh, some seek bread—no more—life's mere subsistence,
And some seek wealth and ease—the common quest;
And some seek fame, that hovers in the distance:
But all are seeking rest.

"Our temples throb, our brains are turning, turning,
Would God that what we strain at were possess'd;
God knows our souls are parched and black with yearning;
God knows we faint for rest."

He went his way, a haggard shape and dreary,
His hard face set toward the kindled West;
And, lo! a voice, "Come unto Me, ye weary,
And I will give ye rest."

FREDERICK LANGBRIDGE.

A DENVER TRAGEDY.

Troubles Caused by a Faithless Woman—A Seducer and Bride Killed.

Denver Letter to Cincinnati Gazette.

The following story, recounting a very sensational and most distressing tragedy, is condensed from the Denver Tribune of June 1. The principal actor in it, Charles W. Stickney, is described as a man of 32, a graduate of Harvard University, and by profession a teacher. "He went to Denver," says the Tribune, "in the early part of last year, accompanied by his wife, a woman of about 25 years of age, round and plump of figure, with soft brown eyes and hair of the same color, and a winsome, fascinating expression of countenance. Notwithstanding the fact that Stickney had his pockets full of first class letters of introduction from well known gentlemen in the East, he failed to find satisfactory employment, and, leaving his wife in Denver with sufficient funds to support herself comfortably, departed for the mountains to seek his fortune in the precarious pursuit of prospecting for silver.

"It was while he was absent, some time in July, that Mrs. Stickney met Mr. Campau, a well known real estate broker. He had already made a favorable impression in society, had become a member of the Philharmonic Society, and sang in the choir of the Episcopal Church. Just how the meeting between Mr. Campau and the wife of the Professor came about is not known. Their acquaintance progressed so rapidly that one day in August Campau proposed a carriage ride. Mrs. Stickney consented." The event of that drive is shown in the sequel. When Stickney returned from the mountains some weeks later his suspicions were aroused by the conduct of his wife, and on being closely questioned she began to weep, and confessed to him that she had betrayed his confidence in her honor. On hearing this the husband at once sought the office of Campau. The result of their interview was an agreement between them that Campau should give, as a salve to Stickney's wounded honor, $10,000, divided up as follows: A deed for a lot of ground in West Denver valued at $3,000, and seven $1,000 notes, payable six months apart, secured by a trust deed of Campau's undivided one-half of a block in West Denver. The conveyance and the notes were made and delivered to Stickney, who deposited them in the First National Bank of Denver, and then, in company with his wife, started for Palatine, Ill., a little town near Chicago. "The matter which, when it first became known, had caused quite a ripple on the smooth smooth waters of Denver society, had been almost forgotten, when Mr. Campau, on the 1st of April of this year, began suit in the District Court and obtained an injunction enjoining Stickney, Smith, and the First National Bank as agent, from conveying the property he had received from Campau. Owing to Stickney's absence, summons could not be served upon him; but he was made aware of the commencement of Campau's suit by the receipt of a copy of the summons and writ of injunction. He at once returned to Denver, bringing his wife with him. * * *

"Early yesterday morning Stickney, after eating a hearty breakfast, left his boarding house to go down town. When he returned at noon Stickney was greatly shocked to learn that his wife had packed up all her effects and departed the city. She left a letter for her husband. When the latter tore open the envelope and with trembling hands unfolded the letter and began to read it he burst into a fit of crying. When Mrs. Oglevy entered the room a few moments later Stickney looked up and without a word handed her the letter which his wife had left for him. From Mr. Stickney's tearful face and agitated manner Mrs. Oglevy at once suspected that something had gone wrong, and when the former handed her the letter she was too excited to read it, and handed it back to the excited Professor, asking:

"'What is the matter, Mr. Stickney?'

"Stickney heaved a deep sigh and in a voice of anguish answered:

"'I don't know.'

"She then left the room.

"Stickney, after learning of his wife's departure, it is supposed at once started for the office of Campau, his victim. The latter was absent, and being informed later in the day that Stickney was looking for him, he kept away from his office to avoid meeting the Professor. Stickney, it appears, was detertermined to find Campau. He called at his office several times in the afternoon, and failing to find him, waited until evening, and then proceeded to Mr. Campau's boarding-house, No. 420 Stout street. Mr. Cooper and Mr. Cavalle, boarders, were seated on the porch when Stickney opened the gate and ascended the walk to the veranda and rang the bell. Mr. Vernia, the head of the house, came to the door.

"'Is Mr. Campau in?' asked Stickney.

"'He is,' answered Mr. Vernia. 'Will you please walk into the parlor?'

"Stickney entered the house and Mr. Vernia went back to the dining room, where Mr. Campau had just risen from the supper table, at which were still seated Mr. H. O. Devereux and his young wife. Upon learning that some one wished to see him, Campau advanced through a sleeping apartment between the dining room and the parlor to see who his visitor might be and what he might want.

"The moment Campau appeared Stickney, utterly regardless of the presence of four other persons, at once drew a pistol known as an 'English bulldog' from his pocket, and began shooting at the unfortunate real estate broker. The latter, in a fright, turned and fled toward the back part of the building, hoping, doubtless, to make his escape through the kitchen into the open yard in the rear. Just as he reached the door leading from the dining room he fell dead, the blood pouring from a wound somewhere in the region of the neck. A moment before Mrs. Devereux, who, with her husband, had been too much startled by the sudden appearance of Stickney and the subsequent shooting to think of seeking a place of safety, (indeed, the shots were fired in such rapid succesion that there was no time for them to make any move) had received a fatal wound at the hands of the desperate Stickney. When Campau turned to flee he was almost on a line between Stickney and Mrs. Devereux, and one of the bullets—it will never be known which—sped past its mark and entered the heart of the terror-stricken Mrs. Devereux, who fell dead in the arms of her husband, who could not at first comprehend that the loved form he held so tenderly and shieldingly was still in death.

"Apparently satisfied when he saw Campau fall, Stickney turned, and passing Mr. Randall, a boarder, who had stood so near the murderer when he did the shooting that the flash of the powder had almost blinded him, walked out of the house as coolly as he had entered it.

"Mr. Cavalle, who was still upon the porch, approached Stickney the moment he appeared at the door, and with the words 'I arrest you,' put his hand on the murderer's arm.

"If I am under arrest I will go peaceably,' said Stickney, as composed as an icicle and making no resistance. Just at this moment Mr. Wm. H. Malone, a well known young attorney, stepped up and began to talk to Stickney and continued on down the street with him to the Sheriff's office, where he was arrested at the suggestion of Mr. Cavalle as an accomplice of the murderer. He was discharged later in the evening, it being shown most conclusively that he had no knowledge or connection with the case in any way. On his way to the county jail Stickney talked in a rational, comprehensive manner with the sheriff. He did not regret having killed Campau, but when he learned that one of the bullets from his murderous weapon had caused the death of a young wife he was visibly affected, and when the full realization of the terrible thing he had done dawned upon his mind, after reaching the jail, he wailed in an agonized voice.

"'Oh, my God; I didn't shoot a woman! Did I shoot a woman? Oh, no; I did not! I could not. If I did shoot a woman kill me now.'

"The scene in the dining room when the Tribune reporter entered was one that would have touched the hardest heart—not so much through sympathy for the murdered man, but for the young and beautiful woman who lay dead at her husband's feet. It was almost too terrible to realize. The husband as he sat with his head bowed in his hands and with lips parted in anguish as he gazed upon the slight girlish form of his bride of only three months, could not believe that she was dead. He paid no attention to the sympathy of his friends or to the reporters and officials who moved about the room. The dead woman lay with her head to a window in the eastern wall of the house, her little slippered feet pointing toward the door which led from the dining room to the kitchen. In this doorway, his face covered with a handkerchief, lay the body of the dead real estate broker."

A NOBLE WOMAN.

From the New York Times, June 5.

The death in Jersey City of Mrs. Sarah M. Hamilton recalls a touching story of wifely devotion. Mrs. Hamilton was connected with a highly respectable family. She was married to Alexander D. Hamilton, whose family connections were equal to her own. Hamilton associated with politicians, and eight or nine years ago was made Treasurer of Jersey City. He had been in office a trifle less than three years when he fled, and it was discovered that he had stolen $80,000 of city bonds. He was tracked through the country till he was finally ascertained to be in Mexico. Police Sergeant, now Chief Benjamin Murphy was sent to that country to capture him. Murphy found that Hamilton had placed himself under the protection of Cortina, who was the leader of a powerful band of outlaws. He decided that this protection would last only so long as Hamilton's money, and he patiently waited in Mexico till the outlaws should turn the fugitive out from among them penniless. He did not have to wait many weeks. Cortina robbed his ward of all he had and then abandoned him. Murphy brought him back to Jersey City. The first person to meet him was his faithful wife. She forgave him the disgrace he had brought upon her and their children.

When he was arraigned he pleaded guilty. More in response to her entreaties than to any circumstances mitigating his offense, the court leniently imposed a sentence of but three years imprisonment. Mrs. Hamilton went at once to the Governor to seek her husband's pardon. When she found that he could do nothing without the aid of a Court of Pardons, she importuned everybody in her large circle of friends to intercede with the members of the court in her husband's behalf. She sacrificed health and fortune in her efforts to get him out. A year before his term would have expired he was released from his confinement.

Mrs. Hamilton then placed the remnant of her little fortune in his hands, and bade him make a new man of himself. His friends believed that he was on the fair road to redemption, and all gave him a lifting hand. He established a milk route that gave employment to three men, and yielded a handsome income; but he soon fell back into evil company. Selling out his milk route, he purchased a saloon on Grove street. There he started a variety show of the very lowest character. He practically deserted his wife for the lewd women that performed on his stage or gathered to witness the plays. The police raided the place and arrested him. Mrs. Hamilton sat in court at his trial, acting the part of a faithful wife, notwithstanding his treachery to her. During all this time Mrs. Hamilton's family and friends saw, with anxiety, that her health was failing. They begged her to discard the man and leave him to his fate. She turned a deaf ear to them. Several years ago Hamilton disappeared from his home. The faithful woman heard nothing from him, and her death from a broken heart is the reward of her fidelity.

A Relic of the War.

From the Birmingham (Ala.) Age.

A bombshell, doubtlessly fired by the Federals during the late uneasiness at the person or property of some Southerner, came near doing its destructive work in Capt. H. S. Freeman's saw mill the other day. The circular saw was plowing through a large white oak log, perhaps the hardest wood that grows in our forests, when it struck a still harder substance, which broke its teeth and suddenly stopped its progress. Upon examination they found buried in the stock, to the depth of at least eight inches, a large percussion bombshell, which, according to the calculation of those familiar with the growth of timber, had been there sixteen or seventeen years, and the tree had grown over it until there was but a slight scar left. Fortunately, the saw struck the shell, which still contained its load, so as to cause no explosion.

A foreign correspondent writes to a German paper that the order to close the saloons of St. Petersburg on the morning and evening of the day on which the five Nihilists were executed was a clever forgery of the signature of Loris Melikoff, Minister of the Interior. TATTOOING.

An Artist in That Line and the Curious Things He Does.

From the New York Sun.

A man with bronzed face, about 55 years of age, but younger in looks, with twinkling gray eyes and a mustache in which every hair asserted its bristling individuality, arose from a sofa and greeted the Sun reporter with sailor-like heartiness as he entered the front room of the second story at 36½ Oak street.

"You seem to be not very busy to-day," said the reporter.

"Well, no," the artist replied; "Tuesday is a dull day, generally. If you had come yesterday you would have seen this room packed. But I have on hand probably one of the greatest jobs ever attempted, and the man is one of the most mysterious customers I ever had. He is, I should judge, about 50 years of age, and, being fair complexioned, the ink takes finely. He comes regularly every Sunday and generally brings his designs with him. I enlarge or reduce them as he may desire. He doesn't seem to be a very pious man, but nearly all the tattooing I am doing for him is of a religious nature. In his back I have picked a picture of the Blessed Virgin, surrounded by thirty-three angels. A large representation of the crucifixion is on his breast. Then there is a picture of a blind man led by a little girl toward a precipice, and an angel preventing them from falling over. In curious contrast to this, he has a cat on one shoulder and a rooster on the other. Three mermaids are picked in one side of him and his arms are covered with religious pictures. I will soon be through with him, and I think he will be the tattooed man of the world when finished. He's a very uncommunicative man. I found out, however, that he is engaged in the tobacco business, can talk Spanish as fluently as English, and has spent a great part of his life in Peru. He told me once, in a burst of confidence, that he was born in Massachusetts, and when a boy went to South America. When he returned he found his friends had forgotten him, his relatives were dead, and he was a stranger in his native land. He seemed quite mournful when he said this, adding that he would return to Peru immediately after the tattooing was completed. I found out that he received only a small salary in his present business; so I said one Sunday: 'Old man, if I were you I'd go into the show business; with all these things on you, you'd make over $30 a week.' He never said anything to that; so I asked him what in thunder he intended to do anyhow. 'You never mind,' said he shaking his head in a very knowing and puzzling manner; 'I've got my own ideas about this business,' and that was all I got out of him."

"You have no idea why he is getting this done?"

"Not the least; he's a perfect mystery to me."

"Have you any regular customers?"

"Well, no, nor have I had any since I finished picking in May, 1880, the tattooed man now exhibiting at Coney Island. He has a picture of the Washington monument on his breast. He was originally exhibited as a Greek, tattooed in captivity, but is now known as the American tattooed man. He was once a jeweler down town on a small salary. I understand that he gets $40 a week now."

"What is your principal class of customers?"

"Tradesmen, and not sailors, as you might at first suppose, although I have a great many customers among them. One of the illustrated papers represented me and an assistant tattooing a roomful of ladies once; but it was all untrue. I don't average ten lady visitors a year. They usually have the names of their lovers or husbands, surrounded by roses, picked on their forearms. Last month a man came here from Canada by appointment. He was a very high toned, well dressed Englishman, and had the English coat of arms picked in his forearm. I have visitors from all parts of the United States. It is, I think, impossible to remove an India ink picture. Here where this is," said Mr. Hildebrand, showing a ship on the back of his hand, "I had a gathering. Although the skin was removed by the poultice I applied to it, the ship came out as plain as ever on the new skin. The only way to fix a badly picked or objectionable design is to cover it with a new and more deeply colored one. Men come here sometimes with pictures picked in their arms when boys and have them covered with willow-shaded tombs containing the words, 'To the memory of my mother.' This is a favorite design of old men.

Young men frequently have the coat of arms of their country or State picked in to cover distasteful pictures. Men who have had the names of sweethearts who have jilted them on their arms often have them covered with pictures. Members of the Fire Department almost invariably want the old volunteer fireman with a speaking trumpet at his lips. American sailors like the Goddess of Liberty; sailors of other nations the coat of arms of their country. An Indian with uplifted tomahawk is a great favorite with the tars. Sailors sometimes come to me full of enthusiasm and beer, and want the initials of their boarding-house keeper's daughters, whom they have known several days, picked in them."

"What is the best time for your work?"

"Winter. I have more customers in the summer, however, because money is more plentiful then. The work dries quicker in the winter. The best day's work I ever did brought me $27."

"Do you have many boy visitors?"

"Sometimes a father brings his little boys with him, and they have their names put in their arms, where nearly all India ink designs are put, so they can be identified if drowned or lost. A ship captain drowned recently in the East River was recognized solely by means of his name picked with India ink in his arm. Hundreds of soldiers had their names in the center of a knapsack, worked on their breasts or arms by me when I was with the Army of the Potomac as a news agent. I was incapacitated to serve as a soldier, because of wounds received on board the frigate United States, in the war with Mexico, when I learned the business from an engraver on board. Hundreds of soldiers have been identified by India ink designs. Masonic emblems are very popular, and the crucifixion is much in demand."

Hunting Up an Heiress.

Boston Special to Chicago Times.

A dispatch from Salem has the following: Some months ago an old man died in this city who was supposed to be very poor, but on settling his estate property to the amount of $16,000 was found. He had five children, one of whom was married about twenty-eight years ago and died some time after, leaving a son and daughter to the care of the mother. The daughter soon disappeared and nearly every one lost track of her. In settling the estate of her grandfather it appeared that no title could be given without her signature, she being of age and therefore an heir through her father. On seeking her whereabouts it was learned that she was adopted soon after her father's death by a wealthy family in Maine a city. She recently married a wealthy young man of the place. The young woman has always thought that she was the daughter of the family that adopted her. Now, in order to give title to the estate of her grandfather, the startling intelligence must be made known to her and her husband, in order that they may sign the papers.

A Fortune in Cigar Stumps.

From a Paris Letter.

Every morning from 8 to 10 there is held in the Place Maubert, back of the Pantheon, in the Quartier Latin, a market for tobacco stumps. If you have ever been in Paris you cannot have failed to see many men wandering about the cafes and restaurants on the boulevards picking up the stumps of cigars thrown on the floor and sidewalk by the gentlemen who sit there smoking and sipping their mazagrin, cafe noir, absinthe, vermouth or "sherry goblers," as our Parisian friends term a "cobbler." This market is one of the great curiosities of Paris. No one should fail to see it when "doing" Paris. A kilogramme (two pounds two and three-quarter ounces) of stumps from Londres cigars is worth from 1¾ francs to 2¼ francs, according to the length of the stump. The ends of cigars which sell at 5 and 10 centimes apiece, being of the most inferior quality, sell for only 75 centimes (15 cents United States currency) per kilogramme. There are five "wholesale" dealers in cigar stumps who have their headquarters in the wine saloons adjacent to the Place Maubert, and there they deal with their furnishers, who are mostly poor old men and women and ragged street arabs, who collect these stumps along the public way. Most of the tobacco thus collected is sold to workingmen, and some of it is also exported under the title of "Tabac de Paris." There was formerly an old fellow in the Maubert quarter who became so rich at this humble business of selling cigar stumps that he had an annual income of 15,000 francs.

Blonde Hair Changed to Black.

From the Washington Post.

At a meeting of the Biological Society, held at the Smithsonian Institution last evening, Dr. D. W. Prentiss read a paper entitled "Notes on the Action of Pelocarpus pennatifolius in Changing the Color of Human Hair." Professor Prentiss' paper recorded a very remarkable case of the change in color of the hair of a lady patient in this city, who had been treated several months for blood poisoning, with jaborandi, a Brazilian plant used in medicine. This medicine, which is given to produce sweating in certain rare cases, was first given to the patient in subcutaneous injections in December last. At that time and previously her hair was a light blonde, but within about two weeks a change toward a darker color was perceptible, which increased, until in the middle of January the hair became of a chestnut-brown color. In May the color was nearly a pure black, which it still retains, although there is a slightly apparent tendency to return again to a lighter color. As this is the only recorded case of this plant (which is not, however, in common use) having produced any perceptible change in the color of human hair, it becomes a matter of interest to know how this change was brought about and how often it might accompany the use of this remedy. A microscopic examination shows the hair to contain a greatly increased quantity of pigment matter, and scientists now await with interest the results of future growths to ascertain whether they will retain their old color or retain that newly acquired.

Dr. Darling's Infatuation.

From the St. Catharines (Ontario) Journal.

A very romantic affair took place at the Falls of Niagara on Tuesday last. A fine-looking man, known as Dr. Harry Darling, of Atlanta, Ga., recently registered at Rosli's Hotel, and after remaining a few days, spending his money freely, visited the Table Rock House and Museum, where he was equally free in his expenditure. Finally his gaze rested upon one of Mr. Davis' handsome assistants, Miss Annie Murphy, formerly of St. Catharines. He asked her if she would like to be married and have him for a husband. She said she would, and she did. This was on Monday. Tuesday the pair went across the river and were married, and are now spending their honeymoon and lots of money at the Falls.

The American Mind-Reader.

London Cable Special.

Mr. W. Irving Bishop, the American thought-reader, is causing some sensation in private circles in London. Scientific men are completely at a loss to account for the phenomena. Saturday night he gave a private entertainment, at which the Prince of Wales, Lady Mandeville (nee Miss Yznaga de Valle), the Earl of Donoughmore, Mr. Edwin Booth, Mr. Irving, Mrs. Langtry, Whistler, Oscar Wilde and many other well-known persons were present. The Prince expressed himself much astonished and gratified. Bishop, who is now the lion of the hour, proposes to read Mr. Evarts' thoughts for nothing, at the Langham, where the ex-Secretary arrived from Paris. Great curiosity is felt as to the result of the daring experiment.

Living in Flats.

From the London Truth.

The Queen has lately allotted a suite of rooms at Buckingham Palace to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught for their London residence. These rooms had been for some years in the occupation of Prince Leopold, who has been removed to another suite on a higher story, and as H. R. H. is ordered to go up and down stairs as little as possible, it has been necessary to build a lift for his accommodation at an expense of about £2,000. Practical people will probably think that it would have been more sensible to avoid annoyance and outlay by giving the Duke and Duchess the upstairs rooms, but, I suppose, this would in some way or another have infringed the rigid etiquette of our court.

Upholding American Honor.

From the New York Sun.

Mr. F. Hart, the pedestrian of color, who is now in England for the purpose of upholding the honor of the star-spangled banner in a foot-race with Mr. Rowell, is taking a novel method of training. He has been arrested, examined and committed for trial, on the charge of assaulting a woman, and depriving her of five-and-twenty shillings. Whether as a mark of respect for his pedestrian prowess or in the ordinary course of law, F. Hart has been released from custody on light bail. He can now proceed with his preparations for the race; but the episode which led to their interruption, and to the appearance of our distinguished countryman in the Marlborough Police Court, is painful.

HALE'S HONEY OF

"Nothing without Labour."

HOREHOUND & TAR

☞ Invariably Cures Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and all Affections of the Breathing Organs.

Its soothing influence upon the irritated air passages is due to the fact that its ingredients are the most efficacious pulmonics known, the basis of the article being the honey of the horehound plant, chemically united with the Abies Balsamea, or Balm of Gilead. There are besides five other botanic elements which give additional efficacy.

Those who have used it say that Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar is wonderfully remedial in all cases where the organs of respiration are affected. Its action is unusually rapid. It contains nothing that can disorder the stomach; it has an extremely agreeable flavor, and is sold at a figure which enables the most limited means to avail themselves of its virtues.

Children derive great benefit from its soothing properties when suffering with Croup and Whooping Cough.

Prices—50c. and $1 per bottle; largest, cheapest.

RIVER NEWS.

The John A. Scudder is due.

Capt. W. L. Hambleton left for Mound City last night.

The Gem City went up by the bridge yesterday like an arrow.

All advices from above report big streams and more coming.

The John Gilmore returns South Saturday. She brought up five empties.

Wm. Moffett is now clerk of the Dora, and Fred. Schreiber is her agent.

The City of Helena, Capt. Glem Calvert, will be off for Vicksburg this evening.

The beautiful Bald Eagle, Capt. Wm. Leyhe, leaves for St. Paul at 4 p. m. to-day.

The Cumberland Tow Boat Company are moving a vast amount of steel rails.

The Illinois, Bedford and Chas. P. Chouteau can be secured to make excursion trips.

The snagboat H. G. Wright arrived from the Missouri, where she has been pulling snags.

The Gold Dust was lying at the elevator at Arkansas City when the boiler of that concern let go Monday evening.

The new and elegant Diamond Jo Line packet Mary Morton will be off for St. Paul at 4 p. m. Killeen commands.

Capt. Woodbury's commodious packet Sidney sails for Pittsburg Saturday. She has fine accommodations for passengers.

Capt. Alf Grissom, of the steamer Henry Frank, has been spending a few days in the city, and left for Eureka Springs last night.

Capt. James H. Hurst, of the European Hotel, was formerly a popular boatman. As a hotel keeper the Captain has proved a big success.

St. Jacobs Oil is the name of a small boat lying below the St. Louis Elevator. She will soon take a cruise South in search of rheumatism.

Capt. Jo. Bryan commands the Annie P. Silver, and will back her out for New Orleans Saturday. Green F. Shields presides in the office.

The new steamer Bright Light leaves for St. Paul Saturday. Here is a fine opportunity for pleasure seekers to go North on a fine boat. Vandergrift commands.

There is nine or ten feet of water in the Ohio and Pittsburg, and a vast amount of stuff is on its way west. The Jno. L. Rhoads, Wyoming and several tows are on their way to St. Louis.

River 20 8-10 feet by the gauge and falling. All the streams are in excellent boating stage. Business is active. Three or four heavy tows leave here for the South during the week and the usual number of packets.

The average cost of transporting coal from Pittsburg to Cincinnati, a distance of 500 miles, is from two and a half to three cents per ton, and from Pittsburg to New Orleans, a distance of 1,500 miles, from seven to eight cents per ton.

The Bismarck Tribune of the 5th says: The Dakota, of the Coulson Line, the largest boat on the Missouri River, made the trip from Bismarck to Benton in the remarkable time of seven days, which Capt. Maratta thinks is the best time, considering that she is such a large boat. The Dakota leaves Tuesday or Wednesday on her second trip to Benton.

The Dubuque Herald of Tuesday says: Last year at this time the river started in for a rise with five feet less water in the channel than we have now. By the 23d it had managed to climb up to the highest point almost ever known. It has now began its regular June jamboree, with the accompaniment of heavy and extended rains. While we do not look for the rise of last year, still it must be admitted the conditions are favorable for a pretty big stage of water, considering the fact that it starts in now with five feet more to begin on than a year ago.

The Vicksburg Herald says: The Memphis papers claim for their little boat, "Jim Lee," five hours and fourteen minutes as being her running time between Helena and Memphis. We have it from good and reliable authority that this very same Jim made the run on the occasion referred to between Helena and Memphis in something over eight hours and thirty minutes. There isn't a river reporter in Memphis that hasn't at one time or another tuned his bazoo to gush and taffy for the little Jim; but we have some very unpretentious boats down here that can literally drag her all day long. We hope no Memphis reporter will be so rash as to pull a $10,000 bill on us.

PERIHELION PERILS.

The Planets Swerving the Sun Off His Center Nearly a Million Miles,

Producing a Marked Decrease in the Terrestrial Temperature,

And Playing Havoc With Human Health.

The conjunction of the planets with the sun, it is reasoned by those who have made it a careful study, is having a very marked effect on that luminary. It is estimated that the sun has been drawn from its place 700,000 miles. If this is so the effect on the earth must be marked. As a matter of fact it is said by meteorologists that the average temperature during the past winter had been several degrees lower than for many years, and the effect upon humanity has been seen in a great increase of mortality. The winter has been a long one and a cold one. The summer promises to be a long and hot one. This means increased mortality. It is therefore of the greatest importance that the health should be carefully guarded. Do not permit the slightest approach of disease. It has become an admitted fact that nothing so thoroughly restores and keeps the body in perfect health as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure.

D. W. Bartine, M. D., D. D., who resides in Orange, N. J., after a careful experience, has given the following facts to the public:

Some three months ago I found myself suffering from Bright's disease—Albuminuria. By the use of a reliable test I found albumen in the urine, and in some slight degree in a few instances in a coagulated state. I suffered from dropsy, particularly about the ankles, slight pains about the kidneys, a derangement of digestion, great dryness of the skin, at times much thirst, and, of course, a gradual failing of strength. This was about the state of things when I commenced using Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I took about six tablespoonfuls every day for a week, when I found all my symptoms decidedly improved, and at the end of two weeks it was difficult to detect any trace of albumen. Having imprudently taken cold, I had a slight relapse some two weeks ago, when I began again using the medicine, and am now as well as ever.

The conclusion from the above statement and the facts which accompany it must be evident. Disease is in our midst, and we must guard ourselves in time. A little precaution may save severe sickness, perhaps death.

III NORTH FIFTH STREET.

OFFICIAL ORGAN OF THE CITY

THE White House is still besieged by hungry office-seekers. The President should give the creatures some cold victuals and send them to Albany to fight CONKLING.

MCQUEEN, a drunkard who killed his wife in this city a year ago, was sentenced this morning to two years' confinement in the penitentiary. An ordinary wife-whipper ought to have that much.

IT is given out that Gen. SHERMAN will subject JEFF DAVIS' new book to a careful criticism. Very good. He has nothing on earth to do save to draw salary, and this new diversion may keep him out of devilment.

DOUBTLESS the public service would be benefited by sending BLAINE to the Court of St. James and placing LOWELL at the head of the State Department, but we want BLAINE to remain in the Cabinet until all his revenges are completed.

THE Ohio Republicans yesterday applauded JOHN SHERMAN when he complimented GARFIELD'S Administration. A Democratic Convention would have done the same thing, for Mr. GARFIELD seems to have been ordained to clear the way for a Democratic President in 1884.

MR. BLAINE is building himself a palace in Washington City that will probably cost him $100,000. He evidently considers himself permanently settled among the official classes. He would feel quite poorly if the Star Route lightning should knock the roof off his new domicile.

THE Courier-Journal, edited by a nephew, calls attention to the fact that STANLEY MATTHEWS' first decision as a Justice of the Supreme Court was against the railroads. He ruled that rivers have rights that railroads are bound to respect. The indications are that the new Justice has had an attack of remorse.

EDITOR STOREY, of the Chicago Times, announces that he intends to make his paper the greatest vehicle of news in the world. In the same issue he mentions editorially the fact that one of his subscribers has presented him with a basket of luscious strawberries. When a newspaper starts out to record everything that happens on earth it can't overlook strawberries.

JULIUS CÆSAR could have marched an army five hundred miles and could have subjugated three provinces with less mental effort than it has cost Gov. CRITTENDEN to select the Notaries for St. Louis. He has been here several days engaged in the great work but, despite the arduous incubation, not a name has been hatched as yet. The expectant throng is growing heart-sick.

A TERRIBLE conflagration was raging at Quebec this morning and a thousand families have been rendered homeless. Quebec is largely made up of wooden buildings. It is compactly built and the streets are crooked and narrow. The Fire Department is the poorest on the Western Continent. The engines in use are mostly old hand pumps and the fire brigade is utterly without discipline. It is a wonder that the city was not obliterated years ago.

IT is really amusing, when you come to analyze it, that GRANT should speak of CARL SCHURZ as a carpet-bagger. It is true that the great German statesman has shown a nomadic disposition in his day, but how about GRANT? He was born in Ohio and lived there until manhood; then he took up his abode in Missouri, afterward in Illinois, and now he claims to be a citizen of New York. As a matter of fact GRANT came near having no home at all.

LEFT without a Chief of Police the KNAPPS are in a state of forlornness that entitles them to commiseration. It is their special pride to have a Chief subject to their influence. They took Chief MCDONOUGH under their care, and, strange to say, the old gentleman held out for a long time under the withering blight. It will be the policy of the Republican now to attempt to wind its slimy coils about the new Chief, but from what we know of Capt. KENNETT he is not likely to commit felo de se by throwing himself in the way of the enfeebled serpent.

CONKLING stock at Albany continues to decline, while that of Mr. DEPEW is on the rise. The situation will be appreciated when it is explained that DEPEW is the candidate of W.H. VANDERBILT, the richest man in the State. The great railway magnate and his son-in-law have both been lobbying at Albany for him. It would be quite appropriate for Republican New York to replace in the Senate a man of Mr. CONKLING'S honesty and brains with the mere tool of a great railway corporation. Mr. DEPEW would be a fit companion for the money-bags and corporation attorneys who have converted the United States Senate into a bourse for capitalists.

THE resignation of Mr. MCDONOUGH from the head of the police force was evidently brought about by a knowledge that a removal was imminent. Whatever else may be said about the old Chief his intentions were undoubtedly good. He served the city to the best of his ability and his personal integrity has always been beyond question. He had grown old and obese, and he lacked the activity and energy so necessary to the handling of a force charged with the care and protection of a great city. His successor, Capt. KENNETT, is a man of education and experience and has a thorough appreciation of discipline. A better selection could not have been made, and we shall count upon a greatly increased efficiency in the Police Department under his administration.

THE election of FOREST H. PARKER as President of the New York Produce Exchange has more than a mere local significance. That gentleman was nominated on what was called the Free Canal Ticket. He and the other officers are pledged to do all in their power to abolish freight tolls on the Erie Canal and thus cheapen the slack water route to the seaboard to a point where competition with the Mississippi is practicable. The whole matter of the waterways will be ventilated thoroughly at the River Convention in this city in the Fall, and it is quite possible that a little of the inwardness of the Free Canal idea may be exploded. At the Davenport Convention a couple of nails were driven into the coffin of the Erie philanthropists by the suggestion that the Illinois and Michigan Canal be made a free gift to the Government. Later on, when the Erie people suggest that this paternal Government pay so many dollars for the slack-water system, turned over to the nation the free gift of the Western Canal, it will be an unhappy precedent for them. There is one fact thoroughly evident, and that is, that both the East and the North mean business in developing and improving their water routes. It devolves on the West and South to see that the Mississippi is not neglected, not left behind in the race, and the sooner the Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis goes to work on this problem the better it will be both for this city and for its tributary territory.

QUEBEC IN FLAMES.

The Whole City Likely to Be Destroyed by Fire.

Six Hundred Houses Burned and St. John's Church.

One Thousand Families Houseless—Thieves Plundering Property.

The Loss Over Three-Quarters of a Million Dollars—The Firemen Demoralized.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The Herald's Quebec special says one of those destructive fires, to which Quebec is subject, broke out at 11 p. m. in the midst of St John's Suburbs, midway between St. Roch's and the Upper Town. The fire originated in a small wooden house in Oliver street and immediately spread to the adjoining buildings. The fire brigade became demoralized and lost all control of themselves and the fire. At two o'clock this morning St. John's Church, Roman Catholic, the largest in the city, worth $100,000, is burning and 600 houses are destroyed, some of them brick and stone, but the majority poor and small and of wood. The loss so far must be over three-quarters of a million. There are certainly 1,000 families homeless. The fire is still spreading. No loss of life is reported. The houseless are camped out in the fields surrounding the city. Thieves made off with most of the property saved from the flames and the fire overtook nearly all the remaining moveables. Half of the people in the town block the streets and the firemen are impeded. A panic prevails everywhere. The burning sparks and shingles are falling all over the city, and its total sweeping out of existence is by no means improbable. A number of local insurance companies are sure to be paralyzed by this disaster. The principal streets destroyed are Richmond, Catourelle, St. Olivior, Richelieu and Daquillon, running to the west parallel with the river; also St. John street, St. Marie, Deligny, St. Claire and Southerland running north and south. Richmond, Catourelle and St. Olivior were principally inhabited by the demimonde. In many instances the parties burned out owned their residences. The fire brigade is miserably inadequate to the wants of the city and the water supply is ridiculously small for such emergency.

DETAILS OF THE CONFLAGRATION.

QUEBEC, June 9.—One of the most disastrous fires which this unfortunate city has been afflicted with commenced last night and was only got under control at 6 a. m. The first alarm was from the corner of St. Olivio and St. Clair streets at ten minutes before eleven o'clock. A few minutes later bells from the Basilica, St. John and St. Andrew's Churches rang. At the second alarm the whole force of the brigade was soon upon the ground. The reflection of the flames were so brilliant that in a short time half the city appeared, attracted to the scene, and by 11:30 o'clock all the avenues around and leading to the fire were so completely packed with people that it was next to impossible to force the way through them. The scene of utter confusion in the vicinity of the conflagration beggars description. Half the people seemed panic-stricken and three fourths of the others were only adding to the general confusion by running against each other and assisting in the destruction of property in the belief they were rendering assistance saving it. Parents sparsely clothed hurried along in every direction and dragging other children by the hand. Cows and horses let loose from burning stables rushed half maddened through the crowd. The origin of the fire was in a stable on St. Olivor street, near St. Mary's.

The flames immediately spread to the surrounding wooden buildings and to the streets above and below St. Olivio. Catourelle, St. Marie and Richelieu streets were quickly a mass of fire for some hundred feet, the flames from the other sides of the streets overlapping in the middle and completely closing them. Scenes common to all great fires were discernable at this stage. Even the police and firemen to a great extent were demoralized.

DARING ROBBERY

was carried on freely in full sight of everybody. Liquor stores and private dwellings attacked by flames were ransacked for liquor which was openly drank by the lowest degree of society, common to the locality in question and who frequent low hovels, whose destruction is one of the least regretable features of the disaster. The sparks which everywhere flew from the burning wooden buildings were themselves a terrible source of danger to the rest of the city. It was a common sight to see men's coats and hats ablaze from burning pieces of shingles which lighted upon them. The wind being from the north drove the fire rapidly in the direction of St. John's Church, and various contrary currents scattered cinders in every direction. The brigade found the fire more unmanageable than ever. They allege four wooden houses were found on fire by them when they arrived upon the scene, and with water absent and unattainable for some twenty minutes it was impossible for them to obtain the mastery. The hydrants threw good streams when the water came into them, but too late to be of much service. When the fire spread as above described the men of the brigade lost all control over any portion of it. Their necessary subdivision into so many parties was a weakness and the flames swept onward with almost lightning rapidity. The fury of the devouring element knew no bounds but the city's outskirts, and none who failed to see them would be inclined to credit the rate at which they swept all before them. A great part of Daquillon, west of St. Genevieve, had been destroyed when the flames appeared in St. John street, a little further out. At one o'clock the clanging bells of St. John's Church in rapid and alarming tones told of danger to that property and summoned assistance. The whole efforts of the fire brigade were immediately bent on saving the sacred edifice, but to no avail. Nothing was saved but the sacred vessels and some of the most valuable plate and furniture of the sanctuary.

The fire had possession of the noble structure in almost less space of time than it takes to tell and the finest and largest church in the city

WAS DOOMED.

It was a grand sight to witness the angry flames climbing the steeples of the church and to see their fall a few minutes later. The more northerly of the two was the first to go.

It gradually tottered over and then fell on the outer side of the street. The other steeple gradually sunk. Next after the church came the Friars' School opposite, and still the fire swept on. Trusting as if confident that so majestic an edifice could never fall prey to any of the elements, the neighbors around had carried their household goods to the front of the church and there piled them at the door of the sanctuary. It was irretrivably lost. The church was worth at least $100,000. The insurance was only $10,000. At the foot of Japeter street below Berthlot market the flames had crossed from the lower side of St. John street and from this point they rapidly flew west along that fine avenue, keeping pace with the other division of the conflagration opposite. Nor was the fire confined to St. John street. At Jupiter it spread southward to Berthlot Market Place destroying the Gabriel and St. Patrick street fords. The lower field alone stayed the progress of the fire.

At Scott street the fire ran upwards towards Grand alley at a terrible rate of speed, there being no water, no hose nor other appliance to stay it. Only a gap caused by the recent conflagration here stopped the total destruction of the whole street. It is impossible to describe the spread of the flames on every side and it will, perhaps, be more satisfactory.

To the north the fire extended as far as Richmond street. The western limit is a little beyond the street car stables at Mount Pleasant, near the city boundary. The limit south at Burton, near Scott and at Gabriel street, has been already mentioned. Briefly summed up the streets consumed are running east and west of Richmond in part principally. To give an idea of the boundaries of the burned district, the only thing that the firemen succeeded in doing was to curb the fire east of St. Genevieve street, and here in fact the wind was blowing from the east and north-east. From Catourell street up nearly to John street the westerly side of St. Genevieve has been swept away; the south side of Catourelle, St. Olivor, Richelieu, Doquillon and St. John's ward to Montcalm, St. Gabriel, Nouvelleau and Briton. Running north and south the principal streets were Sutherland, DeLigny, St. Clair, St. Marie and St. Genevieve; the west side, besides Jupiter street in the Montcalm Ward, also in the west side. Among the property destroyed on John street are a large number of handsome buildings used as stores and private residences. "A" battery was called out and rendered excellent aid in saving property and in keeping order. Several remarkable whirlwinds were caused by the fire. Men were, in some cases, lifted off their feet. On the lower field where most of the burnt out people are camped with their saved goods, the fire followed the unfortunates and burned up most of the goods piled on the grass. Burning shingles fell over the city, and as far out as Maple avenue during the night, endangering every part of the town. Several incipient fires in different streets were suppressed by the vigilance of the occupants. It is computed there must be a loss of $2,000,000 between building stock and furniture. Over 1,500 families are rendered homeless. At least 800 buildings are destroyed. It is impossible to give a full and correct list of the sufferers and losses and insurance at this moment, but all the insurance companies doing business in the city are heavy losers. The fire brigade and apparatus was in quite an unfit shape to cope with such a fire, and to its weakness and wretched water supply the whole disaster is due.

STARTLING CHARGES.

A Member of the Assembly Asserts That He Was Offered $2,500 to Vote for Depew.

Other Accusations of Bribery Bandied—The Deadlock at Albany Maintained—Washington News.

The Adjournment Resolution.

ALBANY, June 9.—In the Assembly Mr. Patterson called up his resolution for the adjournment of the Legislature sine die on the 10th inst.

The Speaker decided the resolution was privileged and in order.

Mr. Patterson read the law of Congress to show that an adjournment was not in conflict with that law.

Mr. Albard hoped not a single Republican would vote for the resolution.

BRIBERY ALLEGED.

Mr. Condon also opposed the resolution, declaring he would stay here all summer if necessary to fill these vacancies.

Mr. Bradley rose to a question of privilege and stated he had received $2,500 to pay him if he would vote for Chauncey M. Depew instead of Platt, which sum he had handed over to the Speaker. He therefore asked for a Committee of Investigation. The Speaker corroborated the statement and said he had the money in his pocket.

Mr. Alvard suggested the money had come from the other side.

The Chair stated the question was an appointment of a Committee of Investigation.

Mr. Brooks hoped the committee would be appointed, attended by stenographer and sergeant-at-arms, and have the power to send for persons and papers.

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Mr. Russell moved this committee have power to extend their jurisdiction to any other similar case.

Mr. Brooks thought sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. When a similar case is presented it could be acted upon.

Mr. Baker said it was true that but one case had been brought to the surface here, but accusations of like character had been made, and it seemed to him proper to provide for all.

Mr. Hickman said it had been broadly charged in the newspapers that money has been, and is used. He therefore wanted the whole matter investigated.

Mr. Low read from the Lockport Daily Union that he could have received from $10,000 to $20,000 for his vote at any time. He branded that statement as false as hell and demanded a full investigation. He also said he had heard that one member's vote for Roscoe Conkling had been influenced improperly. He wanted that charge investigated.

Mr. Casper said he heard a member was offered $5,000 to vote for the defeat of the oleomargarine bill. He denounced the statement as false and said he was told he would get something if he would sign a caucus call, but there was not money enough in the State to induce him to sign such a call. But he felt there was something wrong here, and he wanted an investigation.

Mr. Bemon said he had heard money was being used in this canvass, and he wanted the charge investigated.

THE SENATE.

Bills were introduced by Mr. Mendover relative to the Hudson River State Asylum for Insane.

By Mr. Branson—To appropriate $500,000 to continue the work on the exterior walls of the new capitol.

By Mr. Loomis—Relative to the Niagara Police District.

By Mr. Russell—Motion to extend the inquiry to all other like cases if any there be was adopted.

The chairman announced the question to be on the resolution for final adjournment on the 16th inst. Mr. Draper moved to lay the resolution on the table till after the Joint Convention, it being 11:56. Carried.

JOINT CONVENTION.

The Joint Convention met at 12 m., Gov. Haskins presiding, and proceeded to vote to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Roscoe Conkling. Result: Senate—Conkling, 9; Jacobs, 6; Wheeler, 5; Rogers, 6; Cornell, 2; Lapham, 2; Folger 1; Bradley, 1.

Assembly—Conkling, 25; Jacobs, 43; Wheeler, 18; Rogers, 8; Cornell, 14; Lapham, 9; Tremaine, 3; Folger, 1; Dutcher, 1; Harris, 1.

Combined vote as follows: Conkling, 34; Jacobs, 49; Wheeler, 23; Rogers, 14; Cornell, 16; Lapham, 9; Tremaine, 3; Folger, 2; Bradley, 1; Dutcher, 1; Harris, 1. No choice.

The Convention then proceeded to vote to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Platt.

Result: Senate—Kernan, 7; Platt, 7; Depew, 13; Cornell, 3; Folger, 2.

Assembly—Kernan, 43; Platt, 22; Depew, 40; Cornell, 5; Tremaine, 1; Folger, 2; Crowley 5; Lapham, 3.

Combined vote—Kernan, 50; Platt, 29; Depew, 53; Cornell, 8; Tremaine, 1; Folger, 4; Crowley, 5; Lapham, 3. No choice. The Convention adjourned to 12 o'clock to-morrow.

The Star Route.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The new Grand Jury, to which testimony against the Star Route Ring will be submitted, was drawn to-day. It is pronounced an excellent jury that will do its duty.

It is claimed by the Readjusters and their Republican friends that the Administration has at last decided to help Mahone in Virginia. While the Administration has not yet taken any definite ground, it is undoubtedly more favorable towards the Readjusters than before their Convention. The Republican press has generally commended the Readjuster platform and this has had some effect.

The Administration heartily endorses the declarations of the Readjuster platform relative to free ballot, fair count and public schools, but does not like the plank referring to the belief in the Riddleberger bill. Parties who urge the President to recognize and help Mahone state that the financial part of the Readjuster platform counts for nothing in the coming fight and will not attract attention inside or outside of the State; that the voters who originally favored the Readjuster party did so on the readjustment of the State debt, and the late Convention had to make a concession to those voters of putting on the platform a declaration in favor of readjustment. It is urged that the fight is really between the Bourbons and Liberals. Indications are that the Administration will not act hurriedly as to Virginia. There is plenty of time as the canvass will not open until August. Meantime if the Readjusters make their fight for a free ballot and fair count, and not on the State debt, it is more than probable that the Administration will favor them.

The Democrats generally say they do not believe the Administration will interfere in the Virginia fight. Several Senators who are still here think Virginia should be left to settle her own internal policies, and they say freely if the Administration helps Mahone the Democrats in the Senate will hereafter resent it.

A CHEVIED CHIEF.

Chief McDonough's Resignation and Its Reasons.

Some Interesting Points About the Police Imbroglio.

The resignation of Chief McDonough and the appointment of Capt. Ferd. Kennett to succeed him was the police surprise of the week. Those who pretended to be the most au fait in police news were just as much surprised as was everyone else, although the POST-DISPATCH had predicted the event, and conjecture lost itself in wondering what had caused the sudden resolution of Chief McDonough to withdraw into private life. Up to noon yesterday he certainly entertained no purpose of resigning, and it is said that his sudden resignation was caused by circumstances over which he had no control; that he was forced into his course against his will. As his withdrawal from office blocks any investigation, it is quite possible that the real reasons for the step will never be exploited. Among the host of rumors afloat about the Four Courts the following one is most generally believed: About 3 o'clock yesterday Mr. Morgan Boland called at the Chief's office and, in company with Chief Chapman, had a long and stormy interview with Mr. McDonough, who immediately after their departure put his resignation into Mr. Gavin's hands. As to what this interview was about the stories again conflict, but all combine in asserting that the case was a parallel to the interview which preceded Mr. Harrigan's withdrawal from the same office. It is asserted that the Chief found himself face to face with the alternative of resigning or having a series of very damaging charges preferred against him. It is alleged that affidavits were shown to the effect that a person related to McDonough was successfully approached by gamblers anxious for police immunity and that the same party has frequently walked along the gambling thoroughfare, Sixth street, and packages, presumably money, were placed in the party's hands. It must be remembered that all of these allegations have been reached in a most roundabout manner, and public opinion should certainly be suspended until the old Chief has a chance to vindicate himself of the charges made against him. It is known, too, that Mr. Boland went to the interview yesterday in a very excited frame of mind owing to the fact that he had heard that Chief McDonough was offering to sell a claim against him amounting to $40 for half its face. He is said to have made the Chief acknowledge that he had let his wife have $60 some time since, which the Chief thought was a gift, but which Boland claims was only a loan, and hence he threatened McDonough with exposure if the balance was not paid by noon to day. There is no doubt about the accuracy of this part of the interview between the two gentlemen. Chief Chapman is said to know all about the gambling matter, but so far he has declined to make any statement in the case, only intimating that when his turn came he would fill the air with music. Among other things in the near future is the removal of Chief Chapman whose attitude in the McDonough fight has antagonized several members of the Board who were previously his friends, and it may be put down as one of the certainties that his head will fall on Friday next. In him the force will lose one of its most effective officers. Capt. Daly of the Fourth District will be reduced to his old sergeantcy, four sergeants will drop to the rank of patrolmen and several officers dismissed from the force. This is what is called in sporting circles the straight up.

A reporter called on Gov. Crittenden to-day and asked him whether he had not received letters reflecting on the character of one of the parties mixed up in the above case, and with his old fashioned chivalry he did not deny having received such a letter but said: "You could not expect me to answer a question like that involving a lady's character you know."

Mr. Cupples declined to say anything about the resignation of the Chief, saying that all he knew about it was in the letter of resignation, and he thought that covered the case entirely. He would not deny that Chief Chapman's head was in danger, making upon this point the significant statement that the Board meant to have harmony if they had to remove one-half of the force for that laudable purpose. Mr. John H. Maxon is said to have been pressing McDonough's removal ever since the street car strike, at which time he conceived a very low opinion of the Chief's effectiveness, and Mr. Ewing is said never to have liked McDonough since he called on him two years ago to see about some valuable spring chickens which had been stolen from him and received a lecture on the wickedness and immorality of cock-fighting.

The bond of the new Chief will be for $20,000, and Wm. S. Relfe and Edwin Harrison have offered to become his sureties.

Gov. Crittenden and his St. Louis staff of amusement attendants, George Knapp, Griff Prather, Ben Stickney, etc., went to Coup's Circus last evening. After the performances in the arena the Governor was introduced to the leading artists in the retiring rooms.

Large Real Estate Sale.

We refer our readers to another column in this paper, giving full particulars of the big sale of the St. Louis University Tract, containing 235 residence lots, situated on the high ridge directly opposite the O'Fallon Park, convenient to schools and churches, and approached by three lines of street cars. The sale of this elegant property will take place on the premises, on the 14th and 15th insts., and commencing at ten o'clock a. m. each day. Every lot will be offered for sale, so that big bargains may be looked for. The terms are easy and the title warranted. Plats of the property can be had at the office of the undersigned, giving the front and depth of each lot to be sold. Green & La Motte, Eighth and Chestnut streets.

St. Louis Victims.

A St. Louis firm is also a sufferer at the hands of W. N. Sturges, who was arrested in Chicago for fraudulently issuing elevator receipts for grain that was not in his Keokuk elevator. Sturges' St. Louis commission merchants were Messrs. Billingsley & Nanson. About all the grain shipped by Sturges this spring came to this St. Louis firm who received upwards of 500 cars of corn from him. Sturges drew on this corn as No. 2 mixed at the rate of $150 per car, but upon arrival here considerable portion of this corn inspected rejected and no grade, as did the greater part of the Iowa corn shipped here during May. As the corn thus sent to Billingsley & Nanson sold far below the price of No. 2 mixed, Sturges got into them about $2,000, which he still owes them. This W. N. Sturges was at one time a power in the Chicago grain speculative market, and through bold and successful speculations fairly controlled the market for a time, being then called "King Jack Sturges," but he finally lost his luck and his money and had to retire from the field. For the past few years he has been running an elevator at Keokuk.

THE HILL CIRCUS.

"Mr. Hill, You Lie!" Mr. Wolff's Ejaculation Before the Referee.

The Polytechnic Iron Works investigation was resumed this morning before Referee Van Wagoner. Albert B. Bowman, dealer in machinery, testified that the organization of the Polytechnic Company was first mentioned to him by Britton A. Hill, who wanted him to take a share. It was organized to supply machinery upon the Loehner patents. The examination of the witness at the outset was interrupted by a sharp cross-fire between Britton A. Hill, defendant, and E. B. Wolff and Richmond Plant, attorneys for Loehner, the plaintiff. The discussion arose from a question concerning the admissibility of evidence bearing upon the allegation of fraud in an interlineation of the articles of association and the condition of Bowman's subscription. Britton Hill, addressing the referee, referred to the charges of fraud in connection with the organization of the company under the State law as preposterous, and the charges concerning him as trumped up by perjured witnesses. He went on to say that counsel on the other side had doctored the testimony, whereupon Mr. Wolff shouted: "Mr. Hill, you lie!" Mr. Hill continued in stentorian tones to address the referee and alluded to the other counsel, Richmond Plant, as "a scape goat." Bearing in mind the referee's caution yesterday no scene of violence followed these complimentary exchanges, although it was momentarily expected by the audience gathered to the referee's court. When Mr. Hill got through Mr. Wolff addressed the referee, saying that he would withdraw from the case if Mr. Hill continued to use abusive language to counsel and witnesses as he had done all through the hearing. He had abused him, Mr. Wolff, in a way that could not be tolerated outside a Court, and there was no reason why he should be permitted in the face of the referee's warning to pursue that line of conduct.

Mr. Hill said that he proposed to defend himself from any and all insults wherever they were uttered, and he proposed to make all his villifiers, including the newspapers, responsible for all false charges and utterances concerning him.

Referee VanWagoner cut the discussion short in a reply to a remark calling for his expression by saying that the next interruption would be met by fine and commitment to jail. He would not suffer any more unseemly expressions from any quarter.

A long delay occurred in hunting up authorities as to the admissibility of the question put to the witness, Bowman, touching an understanding between Mr. Hill and Mr Loehner regarding Bowman's share of stock in the company. The objection was sustained, the signature of the witness appearing on the articles of association. The witness was asked whether he noticed any change in the document since his signature was attached to it. The referee sustained an objection to the question on the ground that the inquiry could not extend to the corporation's validity. The court could not under this bill dissolve it. A question as to the introduction of such testimony might well have been introduced earlier in the controversy. Mr. Wolff asked for an adjournment for dinner. Mr. Hill said that later in the day he had to see General Grant, and he objected to delay. The referee wanted the testimony to proceed through the day, and it was so understood. Sufficient time would be given gentlemen to refresh the inner man. Mr. Hill promised to see that the referee did not want for something to eat at the proper time, and the examination proceeded.

The Knights of St. Patrick.

The Knights of St. Patrick will probably take some suitable action on Mr. E. P. McCarty's death, to infer from the following letter:

ST. LOUIS, June 9, '81.

Capt, GEO. W. FORD, President of the Knights of St. Patrick:

DEAR SIR—The death of E. P. McCarty is announced in the morning journals. I respectfully suggest that you call a meeting of the Knights that they may have an opportunity to express a sense of their bereavement. Death scenes are fast closing upon our noblest and best and taking from us the brightest talents and ablest representatives of that race whose mission it is our province to vindicate. A noble, fearless and promising genius, a gem among men, combining distinguished mental qualities and force of character with womanly modesty, and a deference to the humblest, Ed. McCarty is another leaf dropped by the wayside. His loss is felt by our common humanity, but by none more keenly than

Yours, truly,
RICHARD ENNIS.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mr. Ed. McCarty will take place to-morrow from his residence at 2 o'clock.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

George Hagerty, a "trusty" at the Work House, escaped yesterday.

A meeting of the Board of Public Improvements, to receive bids for street work, was held yesterday.

Riley Powers and Charles Silvers carved each other pretty badly yesterday and were taken to the City Hospital.

Wm. L. Hull was last night taken to Keokuk by Officer Holmes. He is charged with complicity in the elevator frauds in that city.

Forty-five dollars per month was fixed as the rent of the tenants of the Polytechnic Building by the Land and Leasing Committee last night.

The two colored men, Bud Anderson and Isaac Moody, had a cutting affray on the Levee yesterday. It did not occur in the Pearl Saloon as stated yesterday.

A proceeding will shortly be instituted by the City of St. Louis against the Lindell Street Railroad Company to have the franchises of the company annulled.

Coup's Circus was thronged last evening by an immense audience. Every inch of available space beneath the huge canvas was densely packed. The circus is the best that has ever been here.

Jasper Meyers, Frank Brown and Thomas Mitchell were taken from this city last night to New Madrid county by R. J. Waters, Deputy Sheriff of that county, and his brother, Dr. L. A. Waters. To-morrow will begin the trial of the prisoners for the murder of Robert D. Laferge.

The Building and Teachers' Committees held a joint meeting at the Polytechnic Building last evening. It was considered advisable to dispense with the Madison Branch School on Seventh and Hickory streets, and to put a six-room addition to the Madison School, costing $6,000.

On next Saturday evening pleasure seekers will have afforded them a fine opportunity for enjoyment. At 4 p. m. on Saturday, June 11, the Chas. P. Chouteau will leave the foot of Chestnut street on a moonlight excursion under the auspices of the ladies of St. Peter's Church. Tickets for the excursion may be had at Hildreth's, 407, North Fourth street.

A very touching spectacle was witnessed this morning on Olive street near Sixth. The dog catcher's wagon had paused for operations, when a large dog of the St. Bernard species ran up to the vehicle wagging his tail and showing other friendly demonstrations. He went in the wagon, however, without a wire being put in requisition and the people on the sidewalk howled and hooted.

At about 6 o'clock last evening as a switch engine was taking No. 4 express train from Central Elevator B to the Union Depot it jumped the track at the foot of Poplar street, turned completely over and landed in the ditch. Lawrence Quirk, the engineer, escaped with a few bruises, but Fireman W. McSorley was caught beneath the boiler as it turned over and was badly burned before he could be released.

A large number of people assembled at Schnaider's Garden last evening to hear the lecture of Mr. Michael M. O'Sullivan on "The Present Crisis in Ireland." Mr. O'Sullivan was introduced by Mayor Ewing, and for about an hour and a half held the attention of his auditors. His lecture was replete with apposite anecdotes, wit, humor and lively description. His style was colloquial and of such a nature as not to weary his hearers. When he had concluded Father Boylan was introduced and spoke briefly but eloquently. He was in turn followed by Messrs. Garvey and Thomas O'Reilly.

The Turnerfest.

At 4 p. m. yesterday the judges of the Turnerbund exercises met at Turner Hall and made their awards. There were one or two inconsequential protests, but in the main everything was satisfactory. At the headquarters this morning everything was quiet and subdued. The New York, Chicago and other leading delegations left last night, and this morning the Davenport and Philadelphia societies were about the only ones left of the visitors, and they were making preparations to depart. The affair has been a great success, and it is said that the Finance Committee will have a favorable report to make—in other words that the receipts were more than sufficient to pay all expenses. If this is the case it is the first instance of the kind on record.

235 Residence Lots at Public Auction.

This property is known as the St. Louis University Tract. It lies beautifully, it is high and dry, convenient to schools and churches, approached by three different lines of horse cars, directly opposite the O'Fallon Park and a few minutes' walk to the Fair Grounds and Zoological Garden. The streets are all sixty feet wide and the alleys fifteen and twenty. There is a large German Church, with school attached, right on the premises.

The engineer on No. 4 passenger train on the I. M. Line, who was thrown through the window when the engine jumped the track yesterday evening, is not as seriously injured as was at first supposed, and will be able to resume work in a few days.

An interesting trial by jury in the Police Court attracted a large attendance this morning. The neighborhood of Main and Taylor streets is occupied by a number of negroes. A few evenings ago Mrs. Washington and Mrs. Ray had a set-to in a narrow hall way. Mrs. Washington was the victim, and this morning she was arraigned in the Police Court to answer the charge of disturbing the peace preferred by Mrs. Ray. About forty negro men and women who had witnessed the sport were summoned to give their testimony. Each party has engaged an attorney and the evidence elicited was so contradictory as to completely paralyze the jury and one of the attorneys. The case will take up the greater part of the day.

Fritz Engel, who until yesterday was doing laboring work at the Vulcan Iron Works, made things pretty lively for his neighborhood last night. Engel had been drinking considerably of late, and came to the conclusion that his neighbors were sadly in need of a thorough overhauling. Engel undertook the task, but had just commenced when Officer Moss arrived and interfered. Engel immediately tackled the officer, and some very artistic work was accomplished on both sides, but Engel's previous exertions told on him, and after a short but exciting scuffle he was handcuffed and taken to the station. This morning in court a boarding house keeper named Eshman testified that previous to the arrival of Officer Moss Engel entered his house and made the place so warm for him that he was compelled to run for his life. Engel called him a liar and made a rush for the witness, who sought protection behind the Judge. Matters were finally adjusted and court allowed to proceed. Engel will spend the summer months at the Work House.

ED P. McCARTY.

Death of the Young and Brilliant Attorney Last Evening.

Edward P. McCarty, the well known attorney, died last evening at his residence, 3417 Franklin avenue, after a few days' intense suffering from an internal disorder. The trouble commenced with an engorgement of the intestines, necessitating a painful operation. Inflammation then set in and Mr. McCarty passed beyond medical skill. His death has occasioned a widespread feeling of sincere regret. He was one of the most popular members of the St. Louis bar, and his legal abilities were recognized at the home of his practice and throughout the State. Born in Indiana in 1846 he had scarcely attained his thirty-fifth year. At an early age he turned his attention to law and studied for some years in the office of Judge Miller at Keokuk, Iowa. Just before the war he came to St. Louis, and was appointed Deputy Clerk of the Supreme Court under Mr. Fishback. Subsequently he became Chief Clerk, and later Mr. McCarty went into the law office of Sharp & Broadhead. Admission to the bar here gave him prominence in the profession, and he very soon made his mark in the conduct of some difficult cases. During the Brown Administration he was appointed City Counselor, a position which he held with great credit. Of late years he figured in all the important litigation before the courts of this city and the Supreme Court. He always entered a case with the intention of winning and he seldom failed. He was married in 1861 to Lydia, youngest daughter of the late A. H. Evans, by whom there are two children surviving. Mr. McCarty was an elector on the Hancock ticket. His social qualities won for him the esteem and regard of a wide circle.

Noticeable Improvements.

The front sidewalks at the Planters' House on Fourth street and at the six new stone-front stores in Dorriss Row on Olive street are being paved with compressed asphalt tiles made by the Asphaltum Paving Block Company of this city.

The new tobacco factory of the Catlin Tobacco Company, corner of Thirteenth and Chestnut, and the new warehouse of the Union Depot Storage and Shipping Company, Sixteenth and Clark avenue, are also to be paved with the same material.

A Slick Trick.

A young man named Schwerdt has been having considerable fun with a number of merchants along Washington avenue. He was formerly bookkeeper for B. W. Muehlhausen, a business man at O'Fallon, Ill., but was lately discharged. Tuesday evening he walked into the establishment of F. W. Heuser, 416 Washington avenue, and ordered a bill of goods amounting to $19, to be sent to Muehlhausen. From this place he wandered up stairs to the shoe store of John O'Neil & Co., purchased a bill of goods amounting to $40 and had them shipped to the same address. He tendered a check in payment, but O'Neil refused it saying that Muehlhausen was good enough. He then came down to Heuser, who deals in gents' underwear, borrowed $3 40 and disappeared. Yesterday morning he borrowed sums of money from persons in the employ of Wear, Boogher & Co. and others, since which time he has not been seen. When Muehlhausen received the goods at O'Fallon, Ill., he wrote back saying that their purchase was unauthorized. This morning he visited the Four Courts and left a description of the party who had done the trick. It is doubtful if anything can be done to him. The only explanation given for his conduct is that he has been on a drunk.

Sale of the Laclede.

The sale of the Laclede Hotel, foreshadowed in the POST-DISPATCH a couple of days ago, took place yesterday. Mr. J. L. Griswold, who lately sold out his interest in the Lindell, became the purchaser, the whole amount paid and to be paid amounting to $200,000. The transaction is on the basis of $90,000 cash and the assumption by the purchaser of a $111,000 deed of trust held by the Bircher heirs and some persons in Philadelphia. The new proprietor takes charge on the first day of July. Mr. Griswold was seen this morning and he stated that he had been contemplating the purchase for some time, and that he never liked to quit the hotel business. He would take possession on the first day of July. He would have the house thoroughly refitted and refurnished and would manage the establishment himself.

Midnight Blazes.

Shortly before midnight last night two frame houses, one and a half stories high and situated on Watson, near Page avenue, were destroyed by fire. The houses were occupied by Mrs. Agnes Haran and Mrs. Mary Coleman. Mrs. Haran's furniture was partially destroyed. The buildings were owned by Bridget Coleman; valued at $800 and insured for $700. The origin of the fire is unknown.

A coal oil lamp exploded about 12:15 this a. m. in Mr. Timothy Ryan's house, No. 515 High street. The burning oil scattered over the carpet and furniture doing $500 damage. The building which is owned by R. Stoneburg was badly scorched; damage about $200. An alarm was turned on from box No. 358. Both house and furniture are fully insured.

Auction Sale of Real Estate.

On the premises Tuesday and Wednesday, the 14th and 15th inst., commencing at 10 o'clock a. m., 235 lots of the St. Louis University Tract will be offered at public vendue. An excellent company has been organized here for the purpose of furnishing a summer season of amusement at the City Park Theater, Belleville. The troupe will appear next Sunday evening in the domestic drama, "The Miner's Wife," and the farce, "A Bull in a Crockery Shop." The following artists are numbered in this combination: Misses Edna Carey, Bessie Taylor, Madge Hughes; Messrs Chas. Krone, J. H. Shewell, R. B. Jones, Fred. Coleman, Geo. B. Berrell, C. R. Persons of moderate means will be induced to visit these places with the view of popularizing them. The Guide will also treat of all the attractive features in the city as information for strangers.

MR. A. B. TAYLOR, of the "Ray and Taylor Manufacturing Co.," Springfield, Mass., is pleased to say: My aunt, Mrs. Pillsbury, of Mount Clair, N. J., while visiting at our house tried St. Jacobs Oil for rheumatism and neuralgia and found immediate relief every time. She pronounced it the best thing she had ever tried for the trouble.

New Buildings.

Mrs. M. Murphy will build a $2,000 brick dwelling at the corner of Francis and Division streets directly.

On Olive street, between Eleventh and Twelfth, Mrs. L. Dearer will expend $60 in repairs upon a brick stable.

The American Express Company will immediately begin the construction of a large building on the east side of Tenth street, between Morgan street and Franklin avenue. Eight thousand dollars will be expended in its erection, and when completed it will be used as a stable.
